The Notorious Pablo Escobar Lovenia Nancy, 2022-10-27 Pablo Emilio Escobar Gaviria was born December 1, 1949 in the city of Rionegro, Colombia. He was the son of Abel de Jesús Dari Escobar Echeverry and Hermilda Gaviria Berrío. Pablo's family moved to Envigado when he was young, where he went on to become one of the most ruthless criminals in history, responsible for the deaths of thousands of people and making billions of dollars from cocaine trafficking by setting up an intricate network of laboratories, transportation routes and distribution hubs throughout the United States and Europe. Young Pablo enters the drug business in the early 1970s with the ransom money as his starting capital. He works for other drug traffickers for his first few years. Fabio Restrepo, one of Medellín's biggest drug lords, is murdered in 1975. Because Restrepo's men were informed immediately after his death that they were now working for Pablo Escobar, it is believed that Escobar was responsible for this crime, despite the fact that this was never proven. Pablo Escobar did the dirty work that drug smuggling requires without hesitation. He was known for his bravery. Even though he was a rising drug lord, he never had a problem flying a plane full of coca paste more than a few times, mostly between Colombia and Panama. He decommissioned the plane he used to fly in those early years and hung it over the gate of his famous hacienda for good luck later, when his wealth reached legendary levels. His cocaine business had a very straightforward supply chain: He brought in high-quality coca paste from Bolivia and Peru, processed it in Colombia into cocaine, and shipped it to the United States to be sold and distributed. Escobar was a smart businessman who made his business grow quickly and soon needed more employees. The Medellín cartel, an organization that gathered all of the criminal organizations in the suburb, was formed in this manner. The first drug cartel in history was the Medellín Cartel. Escobar took advantage of the opportunity to conquer and control a large market. The pilot who flew a plane for the Medellín Cartel could receive cuts as high as $750,000 per flight in a few years, depending on the quantity of drugs or raw materials he smuggled into or out of the country. His first import of coca paste cost only 45 dollars. It was not a secret that Pablo Escobar liked young women. His marriage to Maria Victoria Henao Vellejo, who was only 15 when he proposed to her, is evidence of this. The young couple needed the special blessing of the local bishop before they could wed. He and his wife had two children: Manuela and Juan Pablo. Pablo Escobar had numerous love affairs, the majority with minors, even though they were married until his death in 1993. Between 1983 and 1987, he had his most well-known affair. Virginia Vallejo, his mistress, went on to become a well-known television personality in Colombia. When Colombian television broadcast a video in which she accused a former senator of instigating Pablo Escobar in her presence to eliminate Luis Carlo Galán, a presidential candidate, on July 24, 2006, she became the focus of a significant media scandal. Her biography Loving Pablo, Hating Escobar (Amando a Paul, odiando a Escobar) contains information about the King of Cocaine at his peak that no other biographer could have gotten. She testified as a crucial witness in multiple legal actions against politicians, including former Colombian presidents. The Truth Commission validated her statements. In connection with the Palace of Justice Siege, a high-ranking former colonel and a former general were given sentences of 35 and 35 years, respectively, following her deposition. In the end, the United States granted her political asylum.

His criminal empire has brought a reign of complete chaos and terror that would only end with Pablo Escobar's death and this had happened after a 16-month manhunt for Escobar. At his height and peak of success in 1980s, Pablo Escobar owned planes and fleets of luxury boats, and 19 different residences and mansions in Medellin, each with its very own helipad. There are many attempts to capture him, but he just simply bought off the police, judges and politicians all throughout the country and he killed the others who did not cooperate with him. The Colombian government tried many times to capture him, but he always evaded them. But in 1988, around one thousand national police searched and raided one of his luxurious mansions and with pure luck, he was caught with his pants down, literally.

My Father Juan Pablo Escobar, 2016-08-29 INTERNATIONAL BESTSELLER. Until now, we believed that everything had been said about the rise and fall of the most infamous drug lord of all time, Pablo Escobar - from books to film to the cult series 'Narcos'. But these versions have always been told from the outside, only capturing half the truth, and never from the intimacy of his own home. Now, more than two decades after the full-fledged manhunt finally caught up with Escobar, his son brings us the dramatic truth as never before. Here we find a man of contradictions - generosity and infinite love for his family; yet capable of the most extreme acts of cruelty and violence. In a deeply personal exploration of his father, we see the inner world of a man who was celebrated by some as a benevolent Robin Hood figure and by others, as a dangerous leader of the most ruthless mafia organisation in human history, reaping vengeance and death on anyone that might stand in his way. When Escobar died, his then teenage son vowed revenge. But Escobar Jr. quickly recognised that meant following in his father's footsteps-something neither of them had ever wanted. With his change of heart, he denounced the Pablo Escobar legacy. This is far from the story of a child seeking redemption, but a shocking look at the consequences of violence and his attempt to come to terms with it.

Pablo Escobar and Colombian Narcoculture Aldona Bialowas Pobutsky,2020-03-18 How the legacy of Pablo Escobar inspired the development of narcoculture in Colombia and around the world. In the years since his death in 1993, Colombian drug lord Pablo Escobar has become a globally recognized symbol of crime, wealth, power, and masculinity. In this long-overdue exploration of Escobar's impact on popular culture, Aldona Bialowas Pobutsky shows how his legacy inspired the development of narcoculture—television, music, literature, and fashion representing the drug-trafficking lifestyle—in Colombia and around the world. Pobutsky looks at the ways the “Escobar brand” surfaces in bars, restaurants, and clothing lines; in Colombia's tourist industry; and in telenovelas, documentaries, and narco memoirs about his life, which in turn have generated popular interest in other drug traffickers such as Griselda Blanco and Miami's “cocaine cowboys.” Pobutsky illustrates how the Colombian state strives to erase his memory while Escobar's notoriety only continues to increase in popular culture through the transnational media. She argues that the image of Escobar is inextricably linked to Colombia's internal tensions in the areas of cocaine politics, gender relations, class divisions, and political corruption and that his “brand” perpetuates the country's reputation as a center of organized crime, to the dismay of the Colombian people. This book is a fascinating study of how the world perceives Colombia and how Colombia's citizens understand their nation's past and present. A volume in the series Reframing Media, Technology, and Culture in Latin/o America, edited by Héctor Fernández L'Hoeste and Juan Carlos Rodríguez
