You'Re Not Sick, You'Re Clogged Yoga Matt, 2019-02-23 When we think about our future, we must consider not only the quantity of life but also the quality of life. Many of us live with poor health and do not understand what causes us to be sick, unhealthy, and unhappy. When we realize that money and things cannot buy true health or happiness, then maybe we'll take a better look at ourselves, inside and out. You're Not Sick, You're Clogged offers practical steps designed to take you from unwellness to, hopefully, complete well-being. There are three main categories for good health and happiness—proper diet, proper exercise, and proper living. When we treat these elements separately, each one can stand on its own on a short-term basis. For real long-term healing, however, the three will have to work together. Author Yoga Matt seeks to help us understand that our bodies are the greatest machines ever created and that there are things we can do to regain and keep our health. This guide explores the sources of many common health problems and presents a holistic approach for regaining and retaining good health and quality of life.

But Not Today Judy Esway, 2024-09-10 High school sweethearts, Dom and Maria Domiani, are in high spirits as they set out to celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary amidst the magical red rocks of Sedona, Arizona. But life takes a bitter twist when Dom falls ill along the way, and emergency surgery reveals he has incurable cancer. The devastating news tests their strength but not their love as they grow even closer in a surprising new intimacy. Maria is a progressive, though devout, Catholic. Dom is less overt about his faith, and Maria wonders how he'll come to terms with the prospect of dying. She is surprised when he finds inner peace and acceptance more quickly than she. After all, this is her world. Maria is a hospice bereavement counselor, thoroughly familiar with death, dying, and bereavement. She can educate others about the process, teach classes on the subject, and walk with complete strangers in their time of need. But she is shattered at the thought of losing her husband, the love of her life. Through the story of one colorful Italian American family, But Not Today captures universal themes of love, meaning, faith, loss, death, and fear of growing old alone. It shows the various ways people cope and how humor can provide a sense of normalcy, even when life falls apart. The story is narrated with heart and love through the eyes and rich inner life of the main protagonist, Maria Angela Theresa Giordano-Domiani.

My Parent Has Cancer and It Really Sucks Marc Silver, Maya Silver, 2013-03-05 Let's face it, cancer sucks. This book provides real-life advice from real-life teens designed to help teens live with a parent who is fighting cancer. One million American teenagers live with a parent who is fighting cancer. It's a hard blow for those already navigating high school, preparing for college, and becoming increasingly independent. Author Maya Silver was 15 when her mom was diagnosed with breast cancer in 2001. She and her dad, Marc, have combined their family's personal experience with advice from dozens of medical professionals and real stories from 100 teens—all going through the same thing Maya did. The topic of cancer can be difficult to approach, but in a highly designed, engaging style, this book gives practical guidance that includes: How to talk about the diagnosis (and what does diagnosis even mean, anyway?) The best outlets for stress (punching a wall is not a great one, but should it happen, there are instructions for a patch job) How to deal with friends (especially one the ones with 'pity eyes') Whether to tell the teachers and guidance counselors and what they should know (how not to get embarrassed in class) What happens in a therapy session and how to find a support group if you want one A special section for parents also gives tips on strategies for sharing the news and explaining cancer to a child, making sure your child doesn't become the parent, what to do if the outlook is grim, and tips for how to live life after cancer. My Parent Has Cancer and It Really Sucks allows teens to see that they are not alone. That no matter how rough things get, they will get through this difficult time. That everything they're feeling is ok. Essays from Gilda Radner's Gilda's Club annual contest are an especially poignant and moving testimony of how other teens dealt with their family's situation. Praise for My Parent Has Cancer and It Really Sucks: Wisely crafted into a wonderfully warm, engaging and informative book that reads like a chat with a group of friends with helpful advice from the experts. —Paula K. Rauch MD, Director of the Marjorie E. Korff Parenting At a Challenging Time Program A must read for parents, kids, teachers and medical staff who know anyone with cancer. You will learn something on every page. —Anna Gottlieb, MPA, Founder and CEO Gilda's Club Seattle This book is a 'must have' for oncologists, cancer treatment centers and families with teenagers. —Kathleen McCue, MA, LSW, CCLS, Director of the Children's Program at The Gathering Place, Cleveland, OH My Parent Has Cancer and It Really Sucks provides a much-needed toolkit for teens coping with a parent's cancer. —Jane Saccaro, CEO of Camp Kesem, a camp for children who have a parent with cancer

Fear Not, For He Is with Us! Brenda Carlisle Porter, 2021-04-26 This is a very powerful book. Your whole outlook on life can be changed. You will love reading testimonies that the Lord has performed and also the powerful words of healing will become reality to you as you read it. Regardless of what your past or future holds, it is a healing and spiritual adventure. There will be emotional moments as you walk through this book. I am sharing my testimonies of my life before and after cancer. Each day I get to write a new page, I write prayers straight from my heart. My life is a story of blessings the Lord has given me. Christ has made a difference in my life, and for what He has done for me, I want to witness for Him. When I was diagnosed with cancer, the doctors did not give me hope. It is natural for you to find yourself looking for all sources of hope. You want signs from the Lord. You always pray and ask for healing, but as a human being, you still have fear of the unknown. You always want it in your timing, but you have to wait for the Lord's timing. Just know that you have to keep your faith and go to the Lord with everything. Let go and let God. Reading this book will give you peace of mind, knowing that the Lord is in control, and He is your ultimate source of hope. God, Why Is This Happening? David Haag, 2024-10-31 God wants us to bring him our troubles. He promises to hear and answer us. Yet sometimes God feels hidden from us, and we feel all alone—such as when we or loved ones are diagnosed with cancer. God, why is this happening? God's answer is in his Word. As we look there, we find Job puzzling over the same question. In all his devastating losses, he wanted to know why God sent him such suffering. If you or loved ones are asking similar questions, walk with David Haag—the author of this book—on a journey through the book of Job. He walks with you because cancer has altered his life. In this book, you'll find comfort and strength in God's answer to Job's question "Why, Lord?" From Scripture and their own experiences, the authors of the series When Cancer Comes share words of encouragement and gospel comfort with you and your loved ones as you face cancer—with God's hope.

Loss Salman Akhtar, 2019-11-19 The experience of loss is ubiquitous in human life, but its nature and impact have great variations. When loss is phase-specific, expected, and accompanied by compensatory supplies, it can lead to ego growth. When loss is untimely, unexpected, and unaccompanied by environmental 'holding,' it becomes traumatic and needs clinical attention. This edited volume brings together a distinguished cadre of international contributors in order to explain the multifaceted and nuanced nature of loss from a variety of different perspectives. These clinicians, administrators, and writers delineate the great variability in the setting, antecedents, and consequences of loss. Development-facilitating and development-impeding losses are addressed and so are the losses that seem inevitable as one moves from childhood through adolescence and young adulthood to midlife and old age. Loss experienced by institutional organizations and war-torn societies is also examined. The book's ultimate focus is clinical: it highlights the many technical dilemmas in working with grieving patients and offers therapeutic strategies aimed at ameliorating their anguish. Loss: Developmental, Cultural, and Clinical Realms will appeal to psychoanalysts and psychotherapists both in practice and training from a variety of different backgrounds.

Handbook of Experimental Existential Psychology Jeff Greenberg, Sander Leon Koole, Thomas A.

Pyszczynski, 2004-05-26 Social and personality psychologists traditionally have focused their attention on the most basic building blocks of human thought and behavior, while existential psychologists pursued broader, more abstract questions regarding the nature of existence and the meaning of life. This volume bridges this longstanding divide by demonstrating how rigorous experimental methods can be applied to understanding key existential concerns, including death, uncertainty, identity, meaning, morality, isolation, determinism, and freedom. Bringing together leading scholars and investigators, the Handbook presents the influential theories and research findings that collectively are helping to define the emerging field of experimental existential psychology.

Evolution, Chance, and God Brendan Sweetman, 2015-10-22 Evolution, Chance, and God looks at the relationship between religion and evolution from a philosophical perspective. This relationship is fascinating, complex and often very controversial, involving myriad issues that are difficult to keep separate from each other. Evolution, Chance, and God introduces the reader to the main themes of this debate and to the theory of evolution, while arguing for a particular viewpoint, namely that evolution and religion are compatible, and that, contrary to the views of some influential thinkers, there is no chance operating in the theory of evolution, a conclusion that has great significance for teleology. One of the main aims of this book is not simply to critique one influential contemporary view that evolution and religion are incompatible, but to explore specific ways of how we might understand their compatibility, as well as the implications of evolution for religious belief. This involves an exploration of how and why God might have created by means of evolution, and what the consequences in particular are for the status of human beings in creation, and for issues such as free will, the objectivity of morality, and the problem of evil. By probing how the theory of evolution and religion could be reconciled, Sweetman says that we can address more deeply key foundational questions concerning chance, design, suffering and morality, and God's way of acting in and through creation.

It's [Not] All About Liz! tells the true story of her battle with cancer through her eyes—and through those of her family. Liz; her older sister, Judy; her eldest daughter, Clara; and Joe, the family patriarch, each share a unique perspective on how Liz's cancer impacted them.
