Les cinémas d'Afrique, 2000-01-01 Ce Dictionnaire des Cinémas d'Afrique, est un outil précieux pour les professionnels de l'image mais également pour les amoureux de ces cinématographies riches d'inspirations et d'identité. L'entrée prochaine dans le troisième millénaire justifiait de rendre hommage à tous ces cinéastes qui ont lutté et luttent encore pour donner vie à leurs rêves et offrir leur voix aux pays africains d'aujourd'hui. Les difficultés économiques qui se dressent devant eux n'entament pas leur détermination mais rendent leur tâche bien plus ardue. 54 pays africains et la caraïbe. Cet ouvrage de référence, coréalisé par l'Association des Trois Mondes et le Festival Panafricain du Cinéma et de la Télévision de Ouagadougou, présente la filmographie de plus de 400 réalisateurs issus d'Afrique francophone, lusophone, anglophone, et arabophone, du Maghreb, mais également de la diaspora caraïbéenne francophone. Le Dictionnaire des Cinémas d'Afrique s'est attaché à rendre compte le plus fidèlement possible de cette extraordinaire variété d'artistes, représentation de la diversité des cultures, des ethnies et des langues qui composent le continent africain, ou bien en sont les héritiers.

Resistance, Dissidence, Revolution Viola Shafik, 2023-03-31 Situated within an emerging academic interest in documentary film in the Middle East and North Africa, this book studies the development of diverse documentary forms in relation to revolutionary and emancipatory movements that took place across the twentieth century in the so-called Arab World. Inspired by Deleuze and Guattari's image of a "rhizome," the author takes a de-territorialized approach to revolutionary filmmaking, embracing the diversity and fluidity of revolutionary works in the "Arab World." As well as outlining the documentary film histories of the main film-producing nations of the region - Syria, Lebanon, Palestine, Egypt, Tunisia, Algeria and Morocco - the book analyzes the formal and esthetic features of individual works in relation to specific socio-political historical developments. Topics addressed include de-colonization, the wars of liberation, the Tricontinental movement, the Palestinian question, the Rif Uprising, the Leaden and Black Years, civil war in Lebanon, the recent Arab revolutions, state authoritarianism and totalitarianism, gender, collectivism and political subjectivity. Ultimately, the book contributes to a general theory of revolutionary documentary film forms by studying the works of consecutive periods from different ideological contexts. The book is much-needed reading for students and academics interested in film and media studies and the history, culture and politics of the Middle East and North Africa (MENA) region.

The Encyclopedia is divided into nine chapters, each written by a leading scholar in the field. Each chapter covers the history and major issues of film within that area, as well as providing bibliographies of the leading films, directors and actors. The areas covered are: Central Asia, Egypt, Iran, Lebanon, Syria, Iraq, Kuwait, Libya, The Magreb, Palestine, Turkey. This Encyclopedia will be an invaluable reference tool for students and scholars of Film and Media Studies. It contains more than 60 black and white photographs of featured films, includes references and suggestions for further reading at the end of each chapter, and the volume concludes with comprehensive name, film and general indexes.

Environmental Politics in the Middle East Harry Verhoeven, 2018-09-01 This book investigates how ecology and politics meet in the Middle East and how those interactions connect to the global political economy. Through region-wide analyses and case studies from the Arabian Peninsula, the Gulf of Aden, the Levant and North Africa, the volume highlights the intimate connections of environmental activism, energy infrastructure and illicit commodity trading with the political economies of Central Asia, the Horn of Africa and the Indian subcontinent. The book's nine chapters analyze how the exploitation and representation of the environment have shaped the history of the region--and determined its place in global politics. It argues that how the ecological is understood, instrumentalized and intervened upon is the product of political struggle: deconstructing ideas and practices of environmental change means unravelling claims of authority and legitimacy. This is particularly important in a region frequently seen through the prism of environmental determinism, where ruling elites have imposed authoritarian control as the corollary of 'environmental crisis'. This unique and urgent collection will question much of what we think we know about this pressing issue.

L'émigration des Juifs de Tunisie de 1943 à 1967 Olfa Ben Achour, 2019-10-08 Parcourez vingt années de l'histoire judéo-tunisienne. En l'espace de vingt ans (fin 1940 - fin 1960), des 105 000 Juifs qui vivaient en Tunisie n'en ont subsisté qu'un peu plus de 10 000. L'assimilation française, l'émergence de l'idéologie sioniste à la fin du XIXe siècle, l'épisode dramatique du débarquement allemand et la blessure laissée par la France de Vichy, la montée des nationalismes dans l'ensemble du monde arabo-musulman, ajoutés au contexte géopolitique de l'époque, ont favorisé l'éveil d'une conscience des droits politiques et humains inaliénables chez la population juive de Tunisie. A la fin de l'occupation allemande (mai 1943), des départs ont eu lieu vers la Palestine ; ils s'intensifient à la veille et au lendemain de la création de l'Etat d'Israël. En 1952, l'amorce de la lutte contre l'occupant français, qui se solde par l'accès à l'autonomie interne en août 1954, fragilise cette minorité, inquiète de ne pouvoir accéder pleinement à la citoyenneté sous la nouvelle administration tunisienne, et incertaine quant à son avenir du point de vue social, économique, politique et institutionnel. Jusqu'à l'achèvement du processus d'indépendance tunisienne, l'émigration des Juifs en France et en Israël s'effectue en corrélation avec les réseaux migratoires nord-africains. Les organisations juives mondiales et les associations communautaires juives tunisiennes sont nombreuses à conjuguer leurs efforts pour assister les candidats au départ. L'intégration des émigrants dans leurs pays d'accueil se fait généralement dans la difficulté et la précarité. En 1967, lors de la guerre des Six jours, les manifestations hostiles aux Juifs portent un coup fatal à une possible cohabitation judéo-musulmane en terre tunisienne. Les tensions entre les musulmans et les juifs de Tunisie incitent depuis des décennies ces derniers à émigrer. L'auteure, docteure en histoire contemporaine, en a fait sa spécialisation et nous partage ici ses recherches. EXTRAIT Lors de la première conférence nord-africaine du Congrès juif mondial tenu à Alger du 7 au 10 juin 1952, Maître Charles Haddad, président de la communauté juive de Tunis, attire l'attention sur le dilemme qui se pose aux Juifs, confrontés à ces deux protagonistes cherchant à gagner leur soutien (Résidence générale de France et nationalistes). Il souligne, par ailleurs, l'attachement des Juifs à la France, « source de leur inspiration culturelle et d'émancipation politique », précisant que, dans un tel contexte, leur meilleure alternative est de jouer le rôle de médiateurs au coeur du conflit entre musulmans et Français³⁸⁵. Or, s'agit-il réellement de dilemme ? Car, d'une part, Charles Haddad a précisé que la présence française est plus que nécessaire et que ce point de vue, partagé par la plupart des Juifs de Tunisie, doit rester confidentiel ; d'autre part, il a effectué des démarches pour faciliter l'émigration des Juifs du Sud du pays vers Israël, blâmant l'Agence juive de n'avoir pas pris les mesures nécessaires à leur évacuation. Également présent à ce Congrès en tant que membre de la délégation tunisienne, Mathieu Ganem, fervent sioniste, a ouvertement déclaré que les concessions politiques françaises aux nationalistes seraient nuisibles à la communauté juive tunisienne. À PROPOS DE L'AUTEUR Olfa Ben Achour est docteure en histoire contemporaine, spécialiste de l'émigration des Juifs de Tunisie. Sa thèse dont est issu cet ouvrage est la continuité d'un travail de réflexion qu'elle avait déjà mené sur la condition des Juifs tunisiens sous le Protectorat français et jusqu'à l'indépendance tunisienne. Elle a exercé dans différents instituts universitaires et publié plusieurs articles. Chercheuse associée à l'IRMC, elle travaille actuellement sur la question de la patrimonialisation de l'héritage culturel judéo-tunisien.

Les villes au coeur des inégalités Clémentine Cottineau, Denise Pumain, 2022-07-01 Les villes sont désormais la forme dominante d'habitat des sociétés humaines. Elles sont aussi les lieux où les inégalités sociales sont les plus importantes et les plus visibles. Les inégalités économiques, sociales, foncières et matérielles, ainsi que l'accès inégal au logement, à la santé, aux services et à un environnement de qualité ont des conséquences majeures sur l'espace et les conditions de vie des urbains. Les villes au coeur des inégalités examine la façon dont ces inégalités sont produites et reproduites, à la fois dans et entre les villes. Les théories de la rente foncière et de la ségrégation sociale sont vues à travers le prisme d'une diversité de références disciplinaires et au moyen d'exemples pris dans différentes parties du monde. Cet ouvrage analyse également l'attraction des centralités urbaines en lien avec la pression migratoire, et les effets de la financiarisation croissante de la propriété et du capital urbain.
